NEWS of the WEEK

Yallon's Costliest Election
Washington, D. C.—Final reports of campaign expenditures show the election just held to be the most expensive battle ever waged for the Presidency, with a total outlay of $13,000,000. The Republicans spent nearly $7,000,000, the democrats $3,500,000 and minor parties more than $2,000,000. In 1932 both major parties spent only $4,378,000 and the previous high record of 1928 was $11,598,000.

Seaman's Strike Spreads
New York City—The walk-out of maritime workers starting on the Pacific Coast has now spread to Atlantic seaboard ports, including this city, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, as well as Gulf ports. Already 77 American registry ships are tied up. Asked if the United States Navy might intervene by supplying crews, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, declared such action required only a Presidential order.

First January Inauguration
Washington, D. C.—For the first time a President will be inaugurated for his new four-year term on January 20th, instead of the traditional March 4th. This is in accordance with the Norris "lame duck" amendment to the Constitution. Electors will meet in their States on December 14th, and their ballots will be opened at a joint session of the House and Senate on January 6th.

"It Can't Happen Here"
New York City—Sponsored by the WPA Federal Theatre Project, 21 companies scattered from coast to coast began presenting "It Can't Happen Here," Sinclair Lewis' play based upon the possibility of a Fascist government in the United States. "Commercial theatre men," named author Lewis, "would be afraid to present the idea. The movies bought the novel, and they were scared to make the picture."

Green Mary Loses Skipper
Southampton, Eng.—Two hours before he was to command the big Green Mary in her regular voyage to New York, Capt. Sir Edgar T. Batten was stricken with apoplexy in his cabin and died shortly afterward. His place on the bridge was assumed by Capt. Reginald V. Peel.

The Week in Business
New York City—To counteract the increased cost of living, 30,000 workers in the packing plants of Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co. and Cudahy & Co., received a 10 percent increase in wages this week. The Ford Motor Co. went into active production of its 1937 models, which will be first shown next week. Structural steel companies reported third-quarter earnings of $26,120,000, or nearly as much as their entire year's 1935 earnings.

CONSERVATION PAYMENTS TO FARMERS MAY TOTAL $100,000

Basing his statement on data from sample areas in the state, A. K. Gardner, executive officer of the agricultural conservation program in Maine, said last week that Maine farmers may receive from $300,000 to $400,000 in practice or diversion payments this year.

He said that more than 6,000 of the 9,000 farmers who filed work sheets last spring would probably apply for payments. The first checks, totaling $1,093, were mailed from Washington in late October, according to federal authorities.

A significant change in sentiment on the part of farmers has been noticeable, Gardner said, during the past few months. In the beginning they were fearful that the payments were merely handouts, but since they have learned of the importance of a long time soil fertility participation in the program in gram they have indicated a greater interest.

Commenting on the program as it applies to Maine, Gardner said: "In Maine a type of agriculture prevails which is least likely to deplete our soil resources at a rapid rate. Sheet erosion, or the run-off of surface soil from slopes to lower levels is, however, quite prevalent in Aroostook county. Soil fertility is a problem of paramount importance on most Maine farms. If we are to compete successfully with producers in other areas, soil fertility must be maintained and increased."

"The agricultural conservation program in Maine this year dealt primarily with farm practices designed to maintain farm fertility. Improvement of grasses and legumes, new seedlings of legumes, increased acreages of green manure crops, planting of forest trees and orchard soil improvement have been encouraged by the program."

MARINES REACH NEW MILESTONE

(Born: November 10, 1775)

He is always rather dapper, but a real two-fisted scrapper, eager for a fight or frolic on any foreign scene. He is faithful, true and steady and he always has been ready to uphold his country's honor—the United States Marine.

When the tide of war he's breasted, never once has he protested, even though the odds against him were enough to make him quail.

When the outlook was the gravest, he has always been the bravest, for he knows the corps' tradition, a marine must never fail!

So his birthday we'll remember on the tenth day of November, for the welfare of his country, he has been forever keen, always fair and open-hearted, but a whirlwind when he's started.

He's a bulwark of the nation, the United States Marine—Loren T. Casey

ALDER RIVER GRANGE

Alder River Grange had a record attendance Monday evening when the Ladies' Degree team of Franklin Grange conferred the third and fourth degrees on four candidates. Supper was served at 6:30. The degree team did excellent work and the evening was enjoyed by all present. As the degree work took so much time no program was given but sisters Lettie Day and Olive Davis of Franklin Grange told stories and Brother Perham of Franklin Grange sang "The Preacher and the Bear." Brother and Sister Saunders of Bethel and Sister Saunders of Bethel gave suggestions for the good of the order. Fifty-one members of Franklin Grange were present from Bethel River Grange and 26 of Alder River Grange were present.

NEW ROAD STARTED BETWEEN LOCKE MILLS AND BRYANT POND

Work was begun on Monday of last week on the road straightening project in the woods between Bryant Pond and Locke Mills. The successful bidder is W. H. Hinman of Skowhegan, who has built several stretches of highway in this section. The bid on the two mile job was $32,000, including construction of 1500 feet of road at the top of Merrifield Hill, east of Bryant Pond, on the end of the work done two years ago. Both are to have bituminous macadam surface.

The construction will begin at a point some 500 feet west of the Woodstock-Greenwood town line, which is about the same as near the Littlefield pavilion. With the exception of a few hundred feet the entire project is new location, and on the east end of the job it joins the present road near the home of Charles Clifford. The 70 men at work the past few days have made good progress in cutting the right of way, and a power shovel now stationed at the curve on the top of the hill has removed quite a lot of material which is used in a fill nearby. Some ledge and many boulders will be encountered in the course of the work. It is planned to complete the rough grading this fall. The work is in charge of G. D. Rice of Skowhegan Engineers from the State Highway department are Dana Bartlett and Mr. Lally both of Augusta.

PAUL BROWNE V. OF M. SOPHOMORE PRESIDENT

Bethel people are pleased to learn of the election of Paul Browne as president of the sophomore class at the University of Maine. Mr. Browne is a Gould Academy graduate, 1935, and enrolled in the agricultural course at the university last year. During his course here he was prominent in athletics and many other school interests and is now doing the same at Orono. He is on the varsity football team this season.

GARDEN CLUB SUBJECT WINTER DECORATIONS

The Garden Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 11 at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the president Mrs. William R. Chapman. The subject will be one of winter decorations and bouquets, those available and suitable for this season. A complete table exhibit has been planned with these prices for the last tables shown. The flowers or bouquets can be arranged on card tables for the exhibition and will be fairly judged by all present who are not competing for the prizes. This will be the last meeting before Mrs. Chapman goes away for the winter. Refreshments will be served and plans made for the winter months. Mrs. Alger will have charge of the program, and any one who wishes to exhibit a table should let her know in advance. Also those who desire further information or advice about arrangement should inquire from her. It is hoped that all members will be present and make this meeting one that will be remembered as a real Thanksgiving day for the Garden Club of Bethel.

NEW DEAL WINS, BUT COUNTY AND STATE FAVOR G.O.P.

Maine's Republican Lead Follows September Election Totals—Six Oxford Towns Democratic

With an almost unprecedented landslide of 523 electoral votes to 8, Franklin D. Roosevelt was assured the approval and support of the American people Tuesday. The only states carried by Landon are Maine and Vermont.

The state of Maine gave the Republican candidate a 42,000 plural-lty, which is about the same as Barrows' lead in the governorship contest in September. Landon also carried Oxford County with a lead of 2,375. Lemke received 611 votes, while the other four nominees received only scattered votes. Thomas, Socialist, 65; Colvin, Prohibitionist, 13; Aiken, Socialist-Labor, 7, and Browder, Communist, 17.

By towns the tabulated vote for the three leaders follows:

POTATO GROWING SUBJECT OF MAIN SHORT COURSE

A short course in potato production designed to meet the needs of young men now engaged in farming and those interested in preparing themselves for farming, will be offered this year by the University of Maine College of Agriculture according to Fred P. Loring, director of the department of short courses. The course consists of two three-week periods. The first period, Unit 1, begins November 30 and ends December 13. Instruction in Unit 2 begins January 4 and ends January 23.

Unit 1 covers courses in general management and marketing table potatoes. Unit 2 is concerned with the most profitable business, and includes specialized courses alone that line.

Men and women who are at least 16 years of age and have had a high school education are eligible for admission. There is no charge. The cost of board and room varies from $2.50 to $5.00 depending on the type of room and board selected. The necessary expenses for transportation, books, and other incidentals are the responsibility of the student. The course is held at the University of Maine, Orono, and is a part of the extension work of the college. For further information, contact the director of short courses, Fred P. Loring, at Orono.

BRYANT POND

The young people's Fellowship Forum held their meeting Sunday evening and the young people from Locke Mills Church were visitors. A very interesting meeting was held. Rev. James MacKillop showed pictures on the Foreign Mission Fields, which were enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and two daughters and girl friend of Rumford were present as they were visitors of Rev. and Mrs. James MacKillop and family.

Mrs. Verna Swan and Mrs. Abby Reddy were in Portland, Saturday. Mrs. Verna Swan took George Cummings and Aubrey Cummings' families to Gray, Sunday afternoon. Miss Evannah Fuller, a student nurse at the Rumford Community Hospital was a recent caller in town.

Miss Marjorie Fuller visited her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Ferren last week for a few days.

Miss Ardella Fuller of Rumford visited at Herbert Noyes' a few days last week.

Miss Edith Whitman entertained her Sunday School class Saturday night at a Halloween party at her home. Several came and games were played and refreshments were served.

The Juvenile Grange held a Halloween social Friday night and the High School one on Saturday night at the gymnasium. All had a nice time.

Monday night, Nov. 2, 51 members of Franklin Grange, went to Alder River Grange, East Bethel, and the Ladies Degree team conferred the third and fourth degrees on a class of four boys. A supper was served before the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Cheslie Saunders of Bear River Grange were present.

Schools reopened Monday morning. The teachers attended the teachers' convention at Lewiston on Thursday and Friday.

Nearly 2,000 delegates and guests will attend the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation annual convention in St. Paul, Minn., November 9-11. The 20-year-old federation is made up of 54 associations marketing the products of a third of a million dairy farmers. The New England Milk Producers Association will be represented at the meeting.

Mrs. O. B. Farwell was a guest of relatives in Auburn from Thursday until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban Bartlett and two children were week end guests of relatives in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bartlett and family and Mrs. Etta Bartlett were in Bethel, Sunday.

Wednesday afternoon the Style Show and local canning contest was held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Bartlett. Eight exhibits of one jar of a vegetable and one of a fruit were judged. Those of Mrs. R. D. Hastings having the highest score were chosen to be exhibited at the annual meeting Nov. 5 at Norway.

Most of these making cotton dresses had them completed and wore them in a fashion show. Miss Ruth Callaghan, H. D. A. was there to judge the exhibits and make suggestions about the dresses. The next meeting will be the Health meeting with Miss Bryant of Augusta as guest speaker, Friday, November 6.

Friday evening, Rev. James MacKillop and group of young people of Bryant Pond sponsored a social for all interested in Sunday School work. Rev. MacKillop showed five reels of moving pictures after which all kinds of games were enjoyed.

The teachers put on a successful social for Halloween, Tuesday evening with candy, popcorn and sweet cider on sale. Every girl or lady was supposed to bring a box containing supper for two. One shoe was sold from each girl and the man buying the shoe had to find the person it fitted to find the box he was paying for. Marches and games were enjoyed. Ghost stories illustrated and fortunes told. Every one seemed to have a good time and the School Improvement League was richer by over $7.

Mr. and Mrs. Ceylon Kimball took a long trip Saturday and Sunday across New Hampshire and Vermont to Lake Champlain. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Terrell of Turner were at Ceylon Kimball's, Saturday and Sunday.

Children were born more from toasts that year than were started by railroads, tractors and debate turning more than three times the number caused by rare, less left campfires, and more than three times the number set by lightning. A real woodman broke his matches in two before racing them under a hatch which makes sure that every match is out.

AREN'T WE ALL?

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Plate, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual, National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

About the time this is read we will know who the next president of the United States will be. But whether the electorate decides that Mr. Roosevelt's record has entitled him to another four years or that it is time for a change, many of the great issues of the last few years will be the great issues of the immediate future as well.

One of the greatest, most difficult and perplexing of those issues is relief. It is great because it affects millions of Americans. It is difficult because there are a thousand and one ideas as to how it should be handled. And it is exceedingly perplexing because the relief rolls have increased at a time when industry was rapidly improving and gainful employment was also increasing materially.

Four years ago, Federal relief was something new in American government, and the wisdom or folly of it was much debated. Today both major parties subscribe to Federal relief, and the difference between their stands is one of method rather than of principle. Why have the relief rolls increased while business was improving? First, here are the actual figures, taken from a recent issue of the United States News.

In July 1935, when business was slowly starting up from the bottom reached in 1932, there were 9,608,000 persons on relief. In July 1936, when business felt a real surge of recovery, there were 4,600,000 persons on relief. In July 1935, when a number of important industries began to approach "normal" levels, there were 4,400,000 people on relief. In September, 1936, when the general business index was some what ahead of the 1927-28 "normal" and when some industries had exceeded even their 1929-30 boom period experience, there were 4,600,000 persons on relief. These relief totals include employees of the FWA whose names are reported by other Federal agencies and those whom Congress has now supported by states and cities. Totals do not include WPA members.

Federal relief officials, of whom there is a pattern of the WPA is chief, are finding hard to explain in this apparent economy of better business and more industry. They say that the majority of the unemployed stayed off relief for some time, relying on support from friends and relatives. But that as these sources of income dried up, they were forced to go on relief. They also say that many unemployed people managed to pull through with their own savings, and that when those people go back to work the relief total is not changed. They point out that drought boosted the relief rolls. And they also point out that industry tends to take back into employment first those who were discharged last—the most skilled and necessary workers. As most of these workers were unemployed for a relatively short time, they did not go on relief to any great extent.

There is another explanation, often made by union labor leaders, to the effect that technological advances in industry—which simply means the replacement of men with machines—have destroyed hundreds of thousands of jobs in the last few years.

But a conservative economist, Joseph Sturge Lawrence, writing in Scribner, says that census figures show that in the sixty years from 1870 to 1930, which was a period of extraordinary technological progress, "the population increased 218% in the same period the total gainfully employed rose 278%." The manufacturing and mechanical industries, in which the most impressive technological changes have taken place, show an increase of 444% in jobs. It is the general contention of such economists that technological progress may force men to change jobs, but it always increases the total of jobs. Prime example of this is the automobile. It killed a big industry—the manufacture of horse-drawn vehicles—but it created still bigger industries such as tires, gasoline, repairs, etc.

Still another point of view is that our relief rolls are the direct, inevitable result of an over-generous government. Holders of this idea say that many men would rather take $10 a week on relief than work for $15 a week. Mr. Lawrence believes this and says: "With business recovery eliminating the cyclical factor, continuing unemployment must be laid squarely at the door of governmental indulgence."

These are the main different points of view all opposed all, and all convincingly expressed by their various spokesmen. They serve to indicate how great a problem relief is a problem that goes beyond partisanship to politics and that will hold the headlines whether the donkey or the elephant is in power in Washington.

WPA OFFERS PICTURES TO DECORATE BOYS' ROOM

Every boy who has a room of his own wants to fix it up. Sometimes he is at a loss for wall decorations. Here is a tip. Send to the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for a free set of its 16 livestock pictures.

Each one is about 12 x 8 1/2 inches and a mat and frame have been photographed with it so it is complete and ready to go on the wall, although one may mount it on cardboard or frame it. If desired a boy who is interested in livestock judging will find models to study—cattle, sheep, pigs, horses, mules, goats and poultry.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

Many a puzzle lover is scratching his head in Washington these days. It's another case of you're wrong if you do and you're wrong if you don't.

The new puzzler is another new law—the Patman-Robinson price discrimination act, which was conceived as an attempt to regulate chain stores. Before that act got through Congress, it had been so revised and extended that it could be used to regulate the buying and selling practices of the nation's tens of thousands of manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers.

That was bad enough, but what was worse was the indefiniteness of the law. The Federal Trade Commission, remembering that it was created as a quasi-judicial body, refused to say ahead of time what specific practices would be right or wrong.

Most of those interested hoped that when the Commission first complaints were issued the questions would be answered. But among the first complaints was one against the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation.

Kraft-Phenix, with the best lawyers it could get overhauled its sales practices after the law was passed to see that it stayed within the law. But now it is accused of violating it.

The head-scratchers want to know this: If Kraft-Phenix, despite evidence of good faith and with top-notch legal advice, can't steer clear of law violations, what chance have the thousands upon thousands of small retailers. For the law makes the man who accepts a price discrimination equally guilty with the man who grants it.

Every presidential election year, somebody comes forward with the suggestion that the federal government defray the expenses of the Presidential candidates. And always—as has happened the other day—there is some hard-billed reporter around who knows too many politicians and who cracks: "It's bad enough to pay 'em after they get elected, without paying their expenses to run."

Speaking of recovery—as most everybody is doing these days, two things attracted considerable attention here recently. One was a reprinted article from the London Daily Telegraph to the effect that "there are more people in employment in this country (England) than ever before in its history." The other was an announcement that 3,427,129 persons were on Federal relief on September 5, 1936, more than on July 1 and 165,217 more than in November 1935. Simultaneously, private factory employment reached its highest level since September, 1930.

The question of why relief rolls and factory employment should both rise at the same time was still unanswered.

JAPAN'S FORTRESS-LIKE BASE IN CHINA
Continued strife between Japan and China lends emphasis to this large building, of fortress strength, which Japan has erected at a cost of $1,000,000 in Shanghai, China, to house a "landing" force of 3,000 troops.

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

On this week, Thursday, Albany is having a little extra celebration. The Library Association is having a supper before its annual meeting and also a program of games in the evening. We have heard they had a good time with some games after the last Circle.

Also on Thursday evening the East Stoneham people will have a Circle Supper, and we understand the supper is to be followed by a Family Social for those who would like to stay and have a good time.

The same kind of a program will be carried out at Center Lovell on Friday evening. Plenty to eat, a good Community Sing, and then games for all. We believe we can make these evenings together very friendly, pleasant and profitable.

Another big event for Friday evening! Mr. Charles Stone of Long Branch, N. J., is going to speak to the Men's Club. This meeting will be held at North Waterford. Just notice this change. The meeting will be held at 7:30, and the "cents" will come later in the evening. Mr. Stone, who is to speak, has been Superintendent of Schools at Long Branch, N. J. He has recently resigned to give more of his time to a work in the schools in interest of International Peace. All will want to be on hand Friday evening. You know when we touch on these subjects plenty of good discussion follows.

On Sunday we will have our usual services, with the thought of Armistice Day pervading them. The Young People in the evening are invited to Norway for a Rally. They are asked to bring with them a lunch and be at Norway at six p. m. There will be a social hour followed by the service beginning at 7:30. Many in the Parish might like to go over to hear the speaker of the evening, who is Paul Douglas. He is speaking for the Emergency Peace Campaign, and is a man with a message we all ought to hear.

There is "plenty doing" next week. On Monday evening some of us will be wanting to go to Bryant Pond, where the recently organized County Council for recreation will hold its first meeting. Tuesday night will bring us once again to North Waterford for a Circle Supper. Haven't eaten there for some time; you'll want to be around! Thursday evening we'll be traveling toward Hunt's Corner for another of those friendly evenings. On Friday evening there will be a Young People's Social at Waterford. Will you also be sure to remember the fourth meeting of the Training School will be held on Wednesday evening. These are immensely worth while evenings, and please come if possible.

The Red Cross workers will be looking for your membership dues within the next few days. Just remember that this is a good way to help unfortunate folks, at home, and elsewhere.

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.
Services Sunday morning at 10:45.
"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 8.

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness.—So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.—But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (Genesis 1: 26 to 27, also Genesis 2: 6, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man reflects God; mankind represents the Adamic race, and is a divine and infinite Principle become man, not a divine creature. Did the finite deity, that He should now be called Jehovah? With a single command, Mind had made man, both male and female. How then could a material organization become the basis of man?" (Page 525: 4-6; Page 524: 17-20).
